From September to June, Varied Events

The barn dance, complete with lanterns, fiddles, and an expert caller!

BARN DANCES, apple peelings, square dances have been superseded by a series of present-day school events—cafeteria dances, club parties, the Valentine Pep Session, the Football Rally, Letter Day, Recognition Day, and the highlighting Junior Prom. From freshman enrollment day to diploma day, Centralites find no end to social opportunities—and just plain good times.

Choir members, as old-time carolers, march hand in hand around the tree and huge display of 60 Christmas baskets at our annual Christmas program, Dec. 20.

Enliven School Life, Add Zest to School

Caps and Gowns

ON THIS PAGE: Best Girl Citizen Barbara Gillie gives her final address as Best Boy Citizen Dick Hoops awaits his turn. Mr. Richardson presents the Social Science Cup to Marion Ayers. Winners pose on the lawn after receiving awards on Recognition Day, June 2, 1950. ON THE NEXT PAGE: Mr. McFadden presents the Abbett Cup to Ladonna Brockmyer. Mr. Chappell extends his hand in congratulation after presenting the Dunlap Cup to Paul Meyer. Graduates stand during the benediction.

Honor 1950 Graduates

LONG WILL we remember the graduates of 1950. Going with them are the memories, traditions and beliefs that they have made a part of Central. In the four years they have been here, no matter how gloomy the day, their smiles and cheerful voices have turned the dark clouds away. We shall miss them. Last year Recognition Day was held on June 2, 1950 and June 8 was Commencement. The speaker for the Commencement exercises was Dr. E. Burns Martin from the First Methodist Church, Hammond. There were 290 in the graduating class.

School and Nation

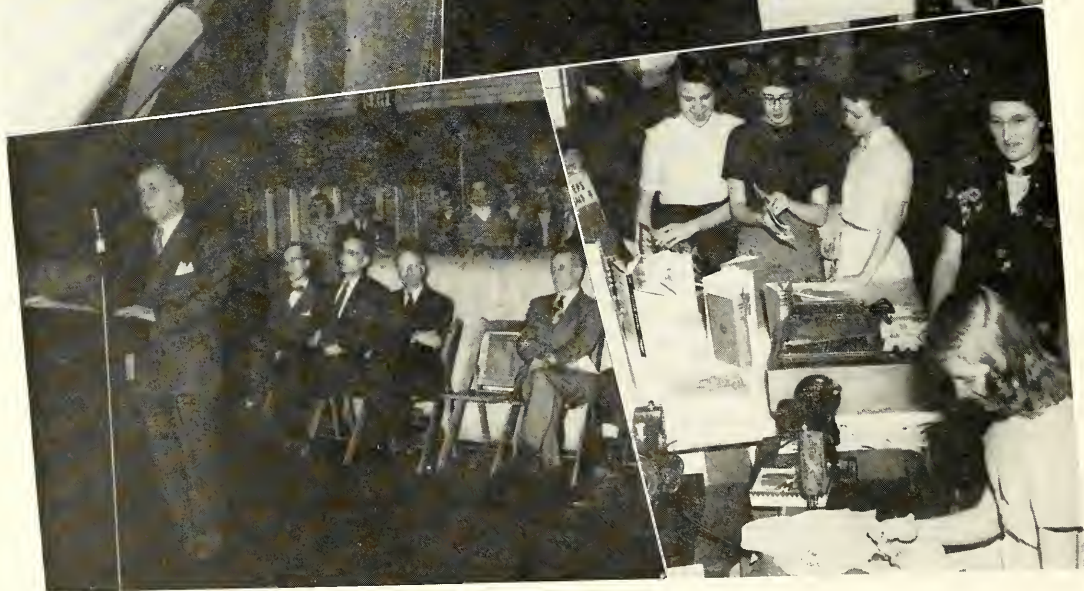

ON THIS PAGE: Ruth Demland, Lois Morrison, and Vasilka Bliznoff, in Mrs. Chester's sewing class, take the last stitches in the United Nations flag for display at Central. General Scheimann and Admiral McFadden compare leads in the 1950 magazine drive, before giving orders to Captain Hoops and Lieutenant Clements. Mr. Veatch, physics teacher, accepts the television set, the first at Central, from Mr. Hoy McConnell of Farnsworth, as arranged by Don Blackwell. Centralites load the truck with gifts and baskets for needy families. NEXT PAGE: Mr. Haley responds to Supt. Abbett's presentation of the newly remodeled auditorium. The orchestra and the choir play and sing for the school in the main hall at Christmas time. Where do we park now? That's the question.

Change in 1951

THE YEAR 1950-51 wrought many changes in the lives of Centralites. The Korean conflict cast a shadow of uncertainty on the future of all. Prices went up; after-game hamburgers cost 25 cents. More pupils got after-school jobs and consequently more drove cars to school. Ironically, "No Parking" signs were put up all around the school so that pupils and teachers had to park elsewhere. The enrollment went down from 1500 in 1950 to 1450 in 1951. But school went on, with splendid Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter programs. What will next year bring?

Achievement Day

ON THIS PAGE: Boys from electricity class show how to test a radio circuit. Miss Blanche Hutto and Miss Loretta Acker show work in ceramics and metal to an interested student. Dean Ralph O. Virts talks of the successful achievements of our noted alumni. Home economics display, showing work of art by these girls, is demonstrated. ON NEXT PAGE: Mr. Surber explains magnets to Mr. Smuts. Dean Ingham watches a demonstration of a radio transmitter. Students from study halls sign their names as they enter the cafeteria to see the Achievement Show.

Inspires Crowds

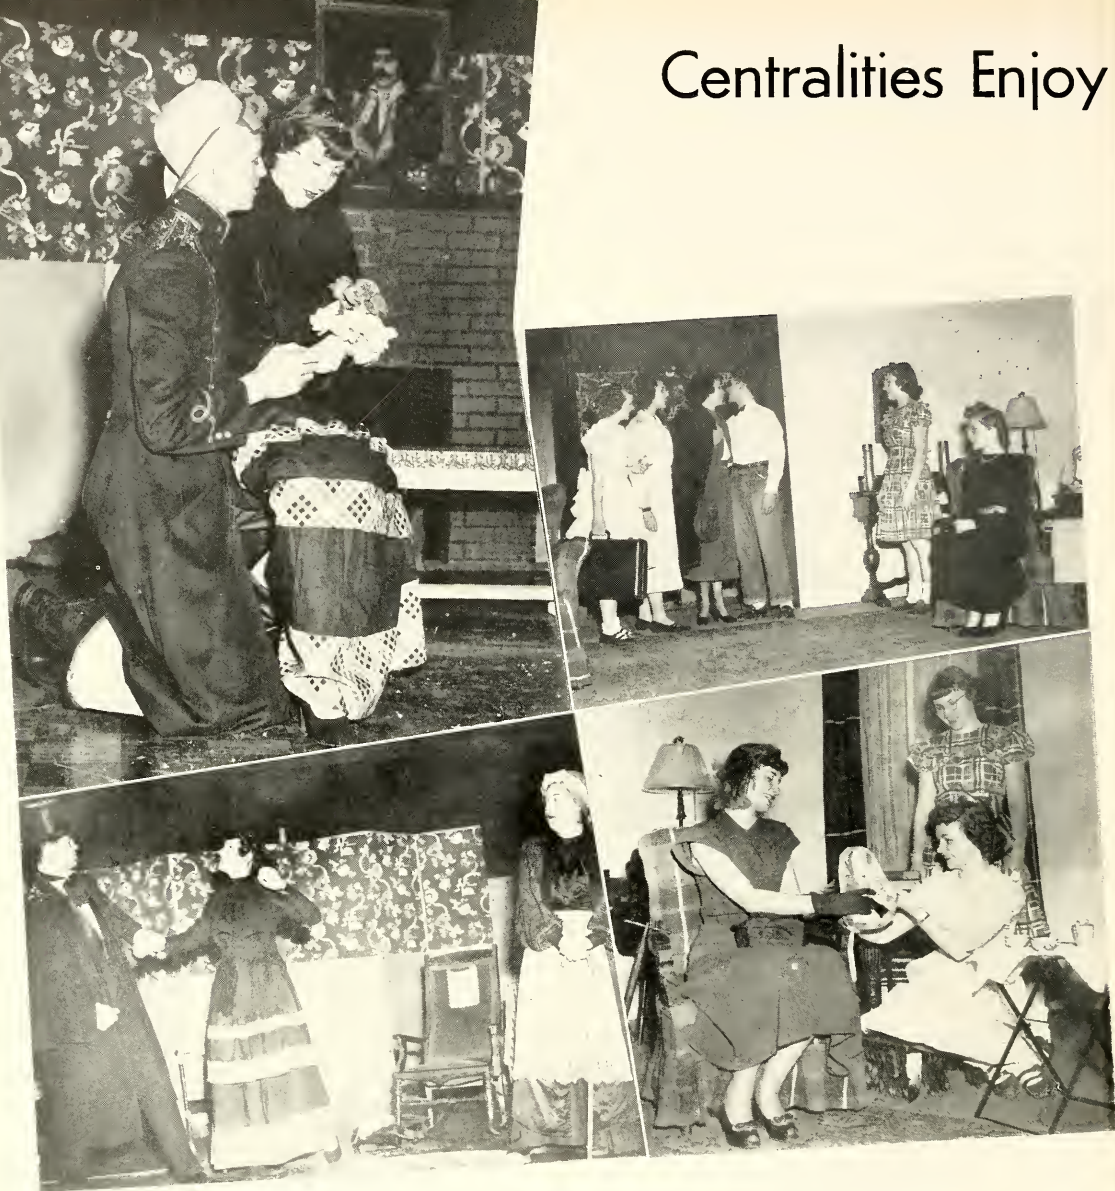

WITH PRIDE TO CENTRAL HIGH A SCHOOL THAT DOES THIS HOLDS EACH PUPIL IMPORTANT, A SCHOOL THAT TEACHES
WELL AS HOW TO MAKE A LIVING. VIEW OUR ACHIEVEMENTS

ON ACHIEVEMENT DAY, May 3, 1950, Central displayed its many achievements, exhibits, to all who would come. All pupils and parents were invited to see all the Achievement Show and the many activities carried on here. Boosters gave a hand with free cokes to all adults, and a baby sitting business for the young ones, Bill Waters serving as chairman. All departments showed achievement and were represented with exhibits. Posters were made for all the activities that went on during the year. In the afternoon, Alumnus John Habecker was principal speaker to the student body in the gymnasium in a program reflecting pride in Central and Centralites. Choir, band, and orchestra furnished music for the day.

Centralities Enjoy

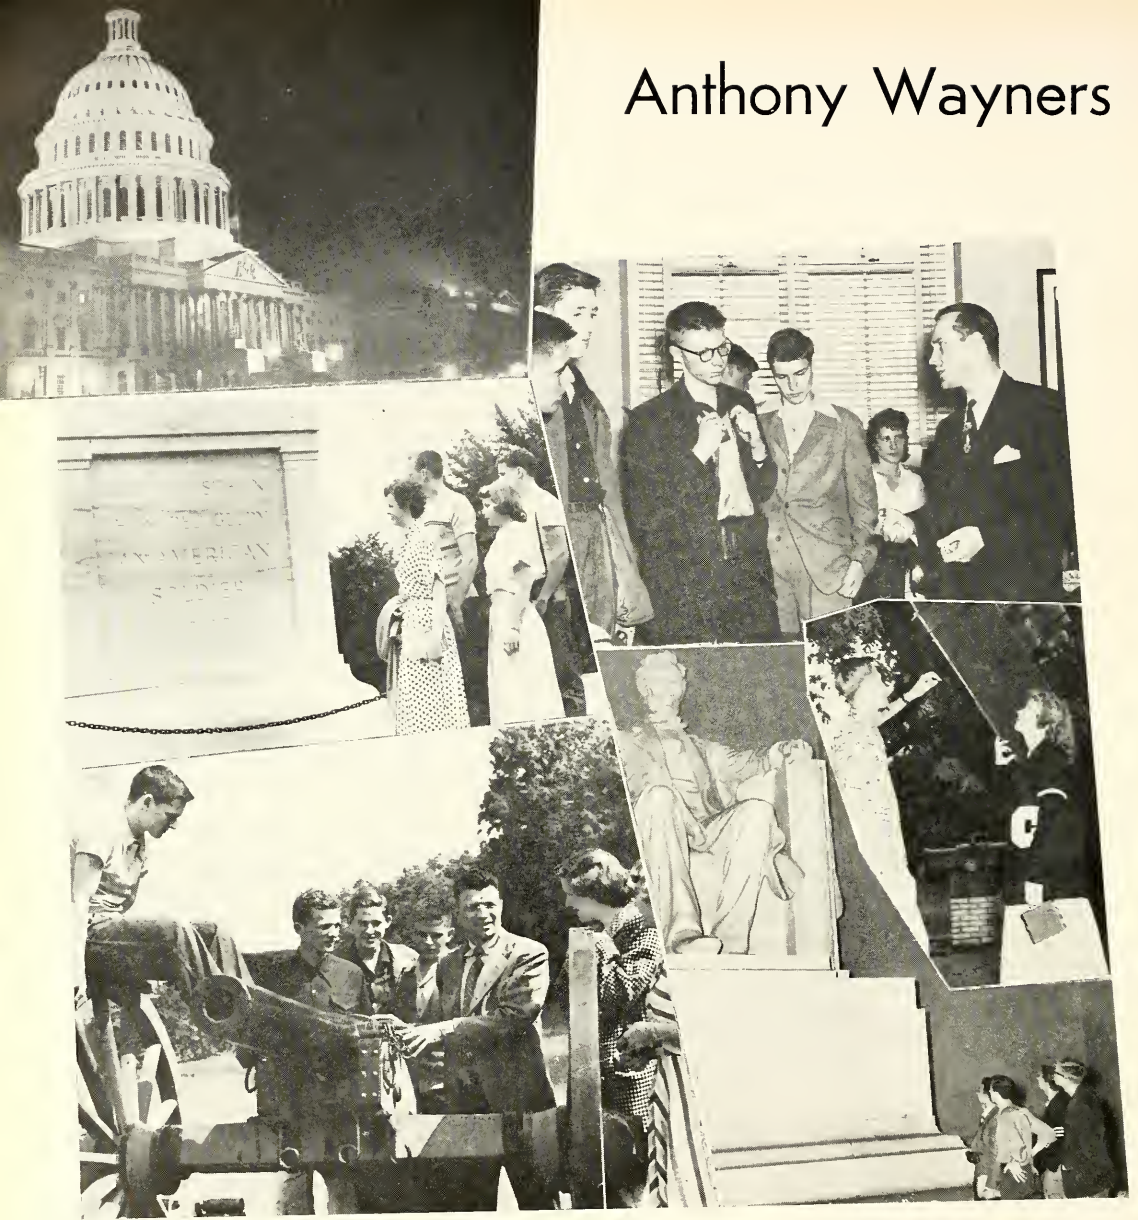

ON THIS PAGE: In the melodramatic Christmas play, Andy Rasbury consoles Vesta Snyder by whispering sweet nothings into her shell-like ears. Mother Marlene Shields kisses son, Vernon Vice, goodbye, as Elma Matthias, Margaret Rohr, Norma Ruth Smith, and Clarex Wagner play their parts in the Senior Play. Kenny Goshert, the villain, demands the hand of Vesta Snyder in the Christmas play, as her mother, Shirley Lostutter, looks horrified. Lois Crandall, Elma Matthias, and Norma Ruth Smith enact a scene from the Senior Play, "Let Me Grow Up." ON NEXT PAGE: Florene Bredemeyer receives the condolences of Margaret Rohr in the play, "Have You Had Your Operation?" Busily drowning worms are Don Pifer, Richard Gambrell, and Wilbur Geesaman in another of the senior one-acts. Connie Standish and Barbara Gillie perform "Dearie" at the Speech Vaudeville, "Charleston Capers." Norma Ruth Smith seems disinterested while Margaret Rohr watches Florene Bredemeyer spat with Elma Matthias.

Superb Drama Season

THE STUDENT PLAYERS CLUB, under the direction of Miss Margery Suter, experienced an excellent dramatic season. The Senior one-act plays, given October 5 in our auditorium, included "Have You Had Your Operation?", "Prologue to a June Moon," and "Medicine Show." The delightful Christmas play, entitled the "Widow's Plight," was presented December 6 in the gymnasium. It was a very well done imitation of the o'd time melodrama. The Senior Play, "Let Me Grow Up," was given January 6 in North Side's auditorium. The speech department, coached by Mr. McFadden, presented the annual Speech Vaudeville, May 5, 1950, in the auditorium.

Anthony Wayners

ON THIS PAGE: The Capitol looks down on the Central delegation. Centralites view the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Representative Edward Kruse explains the duties of a congressman. Mr. Richards demonstrates a Civil War cannon at Gettysburg. Anthony Wayners admire the Lincoln Memorial. Carol Polley studies a gun emplacement. ON NEXT PAGE: Where's that bus? Sleepy groups await en route for coming bus. The group gazes, in amazement at the beautiful fountain in front of the Congressional Library. The busload of 35 poses on the Capitol grounds.

See Washington

THE ANTHONY WAYNE Club left May 26, 1950, for Washington, D. C., and returned May 30. It is a trip which the members of the club eagerly looked forward to. Mr. Clifford Richards, adviser of the club supervised the trip. While in Washington, they visited the Congressional Library, the United States Capitol, Washington Monument, National Art Museum, Mount Vernon, and many other historical places. They stayed at the Hotel Annapolis while in Washington. At Arlington Cemetery they visited the grave of Henry Lawton, Fort Wayne's greatest soldier. This school journey was true education in good citizenship.

Rally, Valentine

ON THIS PAGE: Rammel, Smeltzer, Wagner, Burke, Hoepfner, and Buckley sound off on the Good Ship Naughty Nauticals. Cook Buckley tells her tale of woe. Coaches Eviston, Snider, and Williams get candy. Rat Elma Matthias and Parrot Jackie May sing, "Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better." The quartet, Wagner, Rammel, Hoepfner, and Burke, warms to the occasion. NEXT PAGE: Indians, schmoos, pigs, and people of the hills sing a tune at the Rally. Kigmy Carmichael presents Coach Banet a comic book. Dick Haag gets candy. "Marrying Sam" Haley enjoys a song. Marcia Schmidt awards Dan Holom.

Girls Honor Boys

SHOWN HERE are two of the year's most outstanding pep sessions. These are both planned to honor the boys on the teams. The theme for the Football Rally Day was "Dogpatch Desperadoes" or "Capp's Capers." The girls offered boxes of candy as well as their hands in marriage. The candy was accepted! The name of the annual Valentine's Pep Session was "Naughty Nauticals." The scene of presentation was a pirate ship docked at port "Central High." The show got under way with the proclaiming of "Men Ho" by the captain of the crew, Captain Blood. They are both annual affairs and both are presented by the Booster Club.

Lovely Queen Highlights

THE 1950 Prom, entitled "Orchidees de la Lune," in all its glory would have amazed the old Hoosier schoolmaster. The beautiful queen was Marcia Schmidt and her attendants were Marlene Shields, Joan McInteer, Elma Matthias, Barbara Burke, Jane Hoepfner, Judy Barker, Dolores Smeltzer, Dorothy Lewis, Kathleen Fensler and Elaine Meyer. The happy couples danced to the strains of "Orchids In The Moonlight," as they viewed the lovely decorations representing orchids. The queen was crowned by the past queen, Pat Bollhauve. The music was provided by Burton Schlie and his orchestra. Jackie Harding, past queen, sang with the orchestra.

Junior Prom

Then: One Schoolroom, One Teacher

Reading, and 'riting, and 'rithmetic, taught to the tune of a hickory stick!

LIKE OUR ancestors, who appreciated the one-room schoolhouses, we too appreciate our modern classrooms. They are the center of our learning, offering some two hundred courses each year. In some classrooms are taught the "three R's," in some, valuable skills, and in others, appreciation for fine living. Mid-Century pupils are indeed fortunate to choose from such a rich curriculum.

Like monsters from Mars, boys in welding class learn the secrets of fire and metal.

Now: 100 Classrooms, 78 Teachers

Woodturning • Welding • Auto

OUR WOODSHOP, located in the school warehouse, is one of the most modern high school shops in Indiana. It is complete with band saws, planer, joiners, sanders, lathes and other equipment. These boys in Mr. Dailey's lathe class are sanding a lamp base.

THE VILLAGE blacksmith would blink his eyes in astonishment at our welding class at Central. Here Jerry Gunder and Max Parker are learning to lay a bead in Mr. Guenther's welding class.

THE HOOSIER SCHOOL-MASTER'S horse and buggy would indeed look strange in our auto shop, where our boys are taught the fundamentals of the automobile. These boys are working on the transmission of an auto in Mr. Guenther's auto class.

Woodwork • Mechanical Drawing • Electricity

LATHE TURNING would probably be a new word to the pupils taught by the Hoosier Schoolmaster, but to Centralites it is a common word. Mr. Arnold is the instructor of this class, which is learning a new "cut."

TODAY'S high schools teach many interesting and varied subjects, and Central is no exception. Here these boys are grouped around Mr. Scott, who is showing them some of the problems encountered in mechanical drawing.

WHEN "old Ben Franklin" flew the kite in the thunder storm, he probably never dreamed that electricity would be a subject in the schools of the future, especially at Central. These boys are testing a radio circuit in Mr. Wilson's electricity class.

Homemaking • Cooking • Home Economics

BECAUSE our girls will spend most of their lives in their homes, we devote some of the school day to the teaching of homemaking. These girls in Mrs. Conley's room are learning to cut out a skirt by following a pattern.

GRANDMOTHER was a good cook, but she did not have a gas range. She had to slave over a hot stove all day long. Today, with modern facilities, our girls do wonders. Here girls of this class are evaluating results from various cookie recipes.

EVERYDAY, practical aspects of homemaking are essential to a balanced home program. These girls in home management class are taking care of the kitchen area of the home economics apartment.

Home Furnishing • Home Living • Family Relations

FURNITURE making means not only better furniture for the home but also an appreciation for finer living. Vernon and Jack Vice, brothers, are completing a desk for use at home.

EXPERIENCES in gracious living are part of our lessons in how to live at home. These home management girls are demonstrating correct ways to set a tea table and to serve guests.

HOW TO LIVE at home is ever a consideration, and our school helps to meet this problem. In this class, family relations, James Clements heads a discussion of family budgets.

Driving • Boys Swimming • Art

WHEN GRANDPA went to school, he learned to drive a horse and buggy; in our modern schools, we learn to drive the automobile. Here Mr. Quick shows his driving group what to do in case of engine trouble.

GRANDDAD'S only place to swim was the "ol' swimmin' hole," which he could enjoy only in the summertime. Our swimming classes swim throughout the year in water as pure as the water we drink. These boys are forming a circle in this Purdue University pool, under the direction of Mr. Eviston.

ART IS MORE than drawing or painting pictures. There are metal smithing, ceramics, and other crafts. Here this threesome is making a fish design from a ceramic reproduction in Miss Hutto's art class.

Health • Biology • Chemistry

THE MIND and body work together, but man knows the least about them. At Central we are taught how to take care of our bodies and to think in a clean, healthful way. Here a group in Miss Adams' health class study teeth.

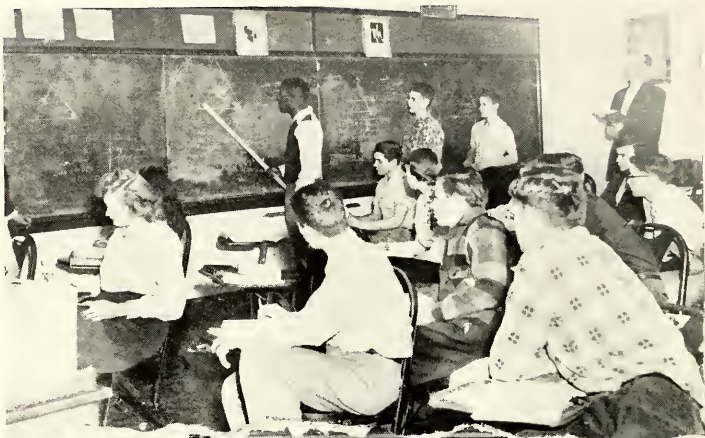

THE HOOSIER schoolmaster taught about flowers, trees, and insects. Biological research in the modern school is carried much farther by dissection and microscopic examinations of plant and animal life. Students in our biology classes learn why life reacts the way it does. This group in Mr. Griggs' biology class study a specimen of a Musci moss.

PIONEER BOYS and girls could only dream of the scientific world of the future. Here in Mr. Dilts' chemistry class they study about our scientific world of today. This group is studying the Bownian movement as shown by smoke particles which are highly magnified.

Algebra • Geometry • Physics

ONE-ROOM SCHOOL mathematics, involving addition, subtraction, and other "ciphering," met the needs of the simple life. Now it's algebra, trigonometry, calculus to help us in the atomic age. Here is one of Mr. Dornte's algebra classes, engaged in algebraic equations.

SECOND AND THIRD dimensional thinking not only cleans out the mental cobwebs, but also leads to skyscrapers, bridges, and engineering wonders. These geometrists of Miss Ridgway speedily solve geometric theorems.

BOTH CULTURAL and utilitarian, physics problems reveal much of nature and natural science to these searchers after truth. Young physicists in Mr. Veatch's class are finding the direction of an electric current.

French • Speech • Literature

MEN can keep harmony with his fellow man if he learns the language and culture of foreign lands. Learning to tell the time in French is Miss Brigham's French class.

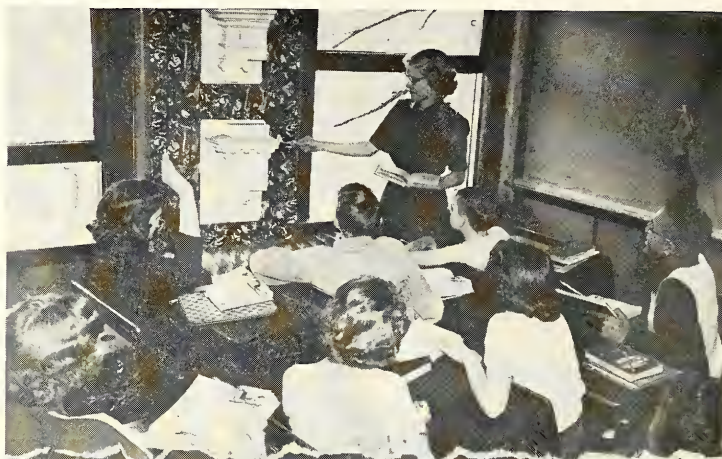

PIONEER BOYS and girls formed literature societies, and learned their speaking powers in them. The Central speech classes are an integral part of our subjects. This class, directed by Mr. McFadden, is learning to speak in front of a microphone.

IT'S A BIG JUMP from McGuffey's readers to Adventures in American Literature, but we still study the truths and consequences of American authors from the past to the present. Here Miss Inham's English class is reading a play.

Latin • Journalism • Economics

LATIN forms a basis for many other languages. Many of our own words are taken from the Latin language. Therefore, it is essential to understand Latin. Miss Baldwin is asking a question about Roman columns in her Latin class.

JOURNALISM, involving proofreading, page planning, writing stories, interviewing, and text discussion, prepares young newspaper workers to publish their own newspaper and to appreciate newspapers all their lives. This group in Mr. Fleck's class, fourth hour, is learning to proofread.

THE CHANGE from pioneer life to our complex industrial life calls for a study of economics. Here this class in "getting the most for the least" is grouped around a chart in Miss Vera E. Pence's economics class.

American History • Sociology • Government

HISTORY is in the making, and it is a "must" that we know where we have been to know where we are going. The discussion in Mr. Ashley's class is on the settlement of the West.

SOCIOLOGY, how to get along with your fellow beings, takes us from the simple life of the pioneers to the complex life of today. Mr. Richardson is discussing marriage problems with his sociology class.

THE COUNTY SHERIFF and township trustee and a few laws are no longer the complete picture in governmental affairs. Our government classes teach us government from the township to the federal government. Mr. Richards is the instructor of this class.

Bookkeeping • General Business • Clerical Practice

HOOSIER Schoolmaster days called for bookkeeping only in figuring the family grocery bill, but in today's bookkeeping classes are taught future clerks, accountants, and keepers of books. This class is instructed by Mr. Johnson.

GENERAL BUSINESS classes give pupils an understanding of business practices valuable to consumers of business goods and services. In this second-hour class, pupils get their instruction to the business world.

THE SCHOOLMASTER never taught devices more complicated than slate and crayon, but here business teachers teach pupils how to use dictaphones, calculators, comptometers, electric typewriters, and mimeographs. These girls, taught by Mr. Windmiller, get actual office training.

Shorthand • Typing • Distributive Education

EXPEDIENCY in the office is stressed in shorthand classes, offered to pupils in advanced business. These senior girls, engaged in a shorthand exercise, are timed and checked by Miss Heal.

BASIC to all office business, typing calls for best efforts of all engaged in business training. In this advanced typing class, girls reach 50 words per minute and often exceed that figure.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION is taking a place in business instruction. A new sales laboratory, Room 105, is unique in its setting of retail situations, contributed by 17 Fort Wayne businesses. Mr. Joseph Casey, of International Harvester, inspects his part of the display.

All Human, Our 78 Teachers Lead

The Old Hoosier Schoolmaster gives a pioneer lesson on "behaving thyself."

"Spare the rod, spoil the child" is no longer heard. Our faculty of 78 is the guiding light in our everyday learning. They help us in time of need and share our little troubles. Yes, they are a part of us. We would be lost without them. We are indeed fortunate to have teachers with such excellent training and experience.

Mr. Dornte upholds his end of the conversation in this tea given by the girls of home management.

1450 Boys and Girls to Better Living

Administrative Heads

THE HOOSIER schoolmaster was superintendent, dean, and principal all in one. We, pupils of today, have the wonderful privilege of being helped and directed by all. Al-

EFT: MERLE J. ABBETT—Superintendent of Schools. Franklin College, B.A.; Columbia U., A.M.; L.L.D., Franklin College. Came to Fort Wayne in February, 1932. J. WILBUR HALEY—Principal. Manchester, A.B.; Indiana U., M.S.; U. of Michigan. Came to Central in 1934, left in 1936, returned in 1948.

ABOVE: Mr. Haley willingly offers help to Marilyn Miller and Bill Yarian. Mr. Abbett has formally dedicated and presented to Central the new auditorium. RIGHT: Mr. Abbett points out advantages of the teaching profession to Tommy Boatman, Clarex Wagner, and Loretta Moser.

Are Friends Indeed

though our superintendent and principal are busy with administrative work, they are never too busy to help us in our problems. Our deans are understanding, helpful, and friendly at all times.

RIGHT: MERIBAH INGHAM—Dean of Girls, Battle Creek College, A.B.; Indiana U., M.S. Came to Central in 1930. RALPH O. VIRT—Dean of Boys, Head of Mathematics Department, Indiana U., A.B. and M.A. Came to Central in 1927.

In Our School Offices

HELP COMES not only from our classrooms but from the offices as well. Mrs. Watson checks our attendance records. The custodians keep the buildings in clean and healthful condition. Mr. Smuts, the vocational coordinator, helps many pupils to plan their vocations and get jobs. Miss Brigham, in the guidance office, is always helping TOP: Checking attendance are Mrs. Mary Watson and Diane Jenkins, junior helper. MIDDLE: Mr. Roland L. Gregory, Custodian Glenn A. Rondot, Mr. Arthur Blombach, and Mr. Henry Budde are discussing the week's work. Mr. Estal C. Smuts counsels a student about getting an after-school job and his future vocational plans. BOTTOM: Miss Mildred J. Brigham, guidance director, talks to these two boys about their four-year cards.

Are Help, Aid, Advice

others in program choices and decisions. Miss Keep and her staff prepare hot lunches for us in the cafeteria. Mrs. Grisell helps with home problems. The main office force, at the hub of things, keep the school moving. We are indebted to the offices at Central.

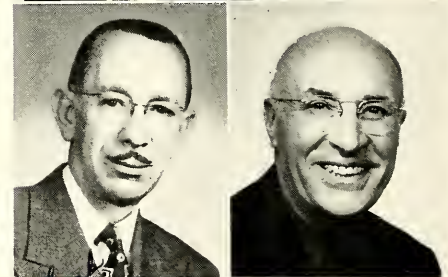

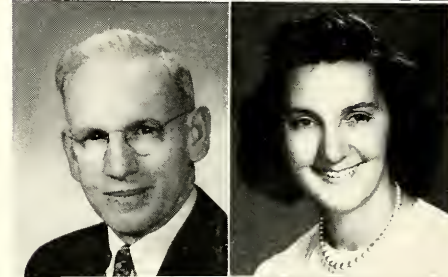

TOP: Mr. J. Henry Chappel, seated, director of industrial, vocational, and adult education, confers with his staff, Mr. Charles Feistkorn, Mr. Frank S. Scott, Mr. Estal C. Smuts, and Mr. Allen Hauelsen. MIDDLE: Miss Gertrude Keep, cafeteria director, confers with two of her helpers, Mrs. Sadie Kleinrichert and Mrs. Maude Dalzell, about another nutritional menu. Mrs. Gretta Grisell, visiting teacher, makes friends with a pupil. BELOW: Miss Emma Adams checks pupil programs, aided by Miss Ruth Uhliq and Mrs. Mildred Keuncke, secretary and clerk.

Schoolmasters and

Parents Visit School,

THE THEME for the P-TA program this year was "Building for Freedom." Some of the highlights of the year were the P-TA dance, held Dec. 15, the Senior Banquet, Jan. 16, Back-to-School Day, Nov. 8, and the family potluck, May 3, at which Mr. Haley gave his report on the North Central Association. Also attentive study group members met to discuss home and school problems.

TOP: Mr. Victor E. Stech shows a health-safety display to visiting mothers. MIDDLE: Parents get acquainted during lunch on Back-to-School Day. Mr. Haley addresses an assembly of parents. BELOW: Dean Ingham visits with Mrs. Jack Wilson, Mrs. Buckley, Mrs. Lansky, Mrs. Repine, and Mrs. Lash talk over plan for the coming banquet.

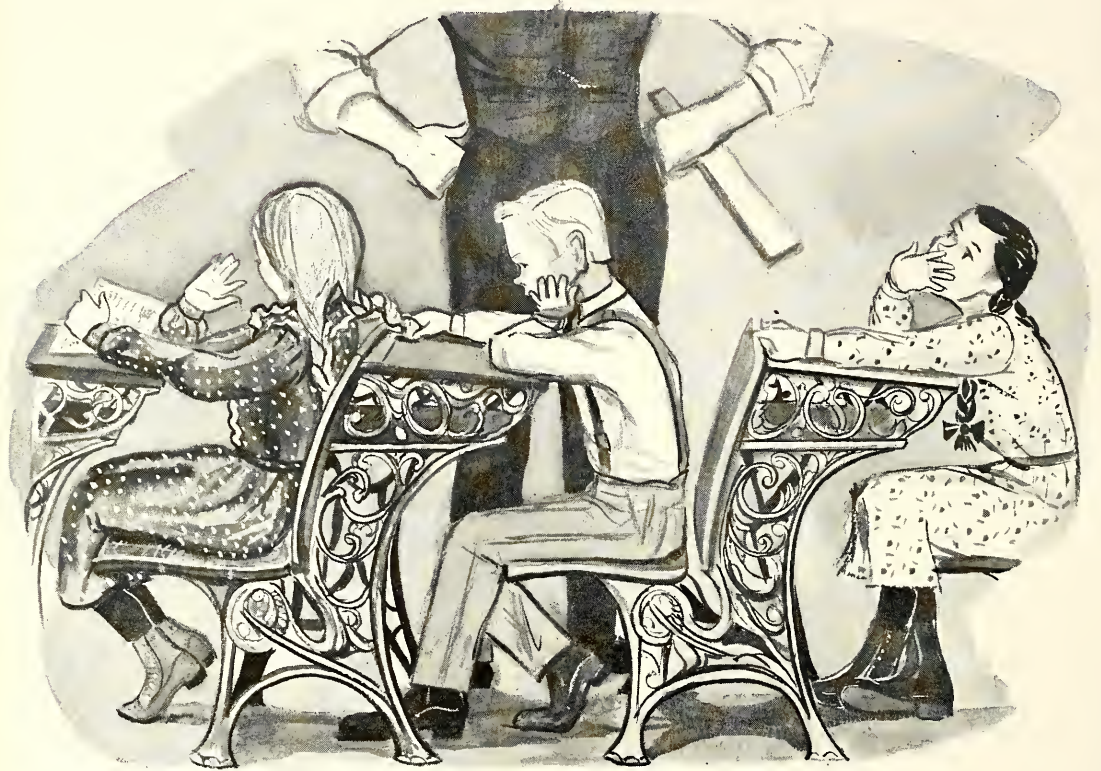

Attend P-TA Meets

TOP: Miss Alvera Baldwin, Latin teacher, gets an apple from the pupil of the day, Mrs. Dave Lansky. Study group members meet in the Lewis Room. MIDDLE: Officers of the P-TA are Mr. Leland Johnson, second vice-president; Mrs. Carl Uhlig, treasurer; Mrs. A. Stephans, secretary; Mrs. Harold A. Friedrich, president; and Mrs. John Repine, program chairman. BELOW: Mr. Scott talks over drawings with visiting parents.

Boys Are Boys and Girls Are Girls

So hard it was to be good all the time!

THE part of school which perhaps changed the least since the days of the Old Hoosier Schoolmaster, is the Student Body. Today's students are of more well-rounded personalities than those of yesterday, for our school life is rich in variety and opportunity. However, if the Old Hoosier Schoolmaster were to watch, he would know that boys and girls are much the same then and now.

Hundreds of feet have climbed and descended the historic center stairs.

Much the Same in 1851 and in 1951

Eleven Make 'A' Roll

ON APRIL 20, nine girls and two boys of the Senior Class were named to the four-year scholastic honor roll. These 11 students worked hard all four years at Central to win this unusual honor. Heading the list were Valedictorian Elma Matthias, 95.17, and Salutatorian Suzanne Rammel, 95.16. For all, the average was 92.28. Both girls were highly active in high school affairs. Their names will be engraved on the traditional scholarship cup after Recognition Day.

THE NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY is for seniors chosen by the Central faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. On April 17, 32 seniors received pins during a special assembly in the auditorium. A formal banquet was held on May 9, at the YWCA in honor of the members. Each pupil was a guest of a teacher. The theme of the banquet was "We Are Typical Americans." The guest speaker was Mr. Edward Kilbourne. George Kerr was master of ceremonies. Beauford Williams sang "Lord Bless Them All." Other members also took part in the program.

Dear Carlene: - much so I always miss my stop. ^{P.S. I wish you wouldn't talk so} ha, ha.

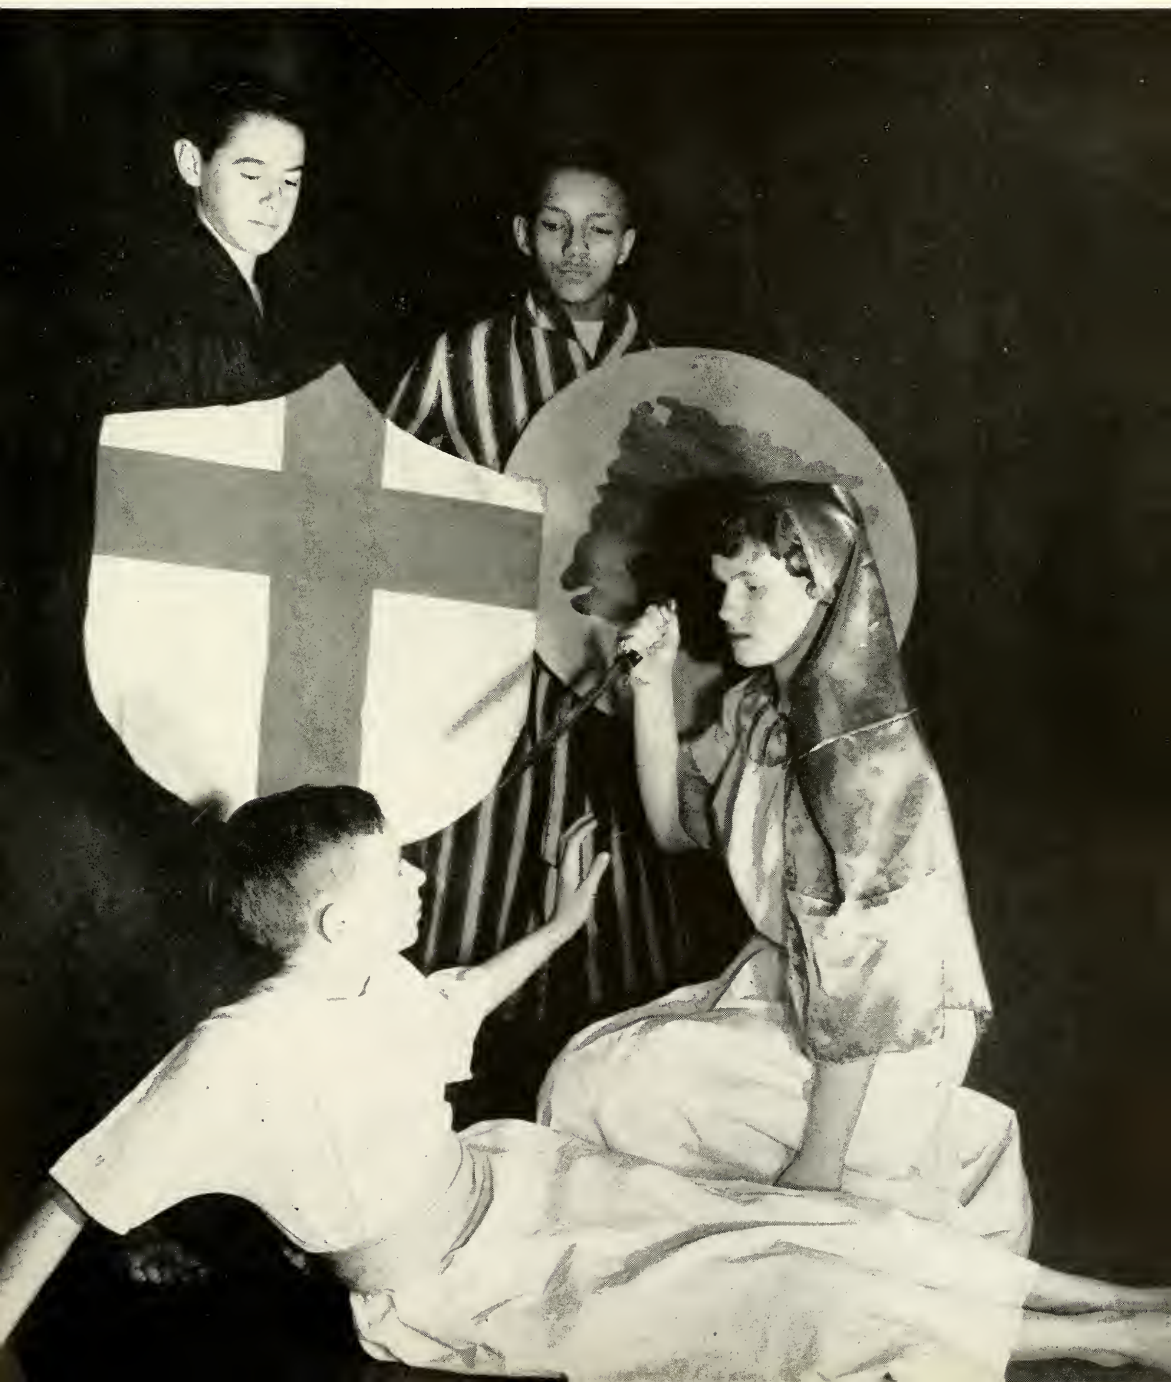

At All Hours, Pupils in Activities

Well, here I go. I feel kinda like I was about to bail out of an airplane over Belgian Congo. I hope you know what I mean. No? (Rather ^{confidentially}) I'll probably say what everyone else has said but it's the truth. Carlene, there's nothing terribly wrong if you're not a second ^{or} Matthias about this time in two years. "Mac" says even the possibility that you are one person who has developed those "possibilities". Suppose now it's "potentialities" for something slightly less fooling. Carlene, for one of the nicest persons I've ever met and I know you've done the most good. I'll now know what an inspiration you were in that first semester of speech. Won't all those shiny cups look nice with "Carlene Miller" scribbled all over them? You really deserve it, too, if you do as good next year as you have this. I'm looking forward to seeing you next semester in Speech from Mrs. R. L. Rothlight and (goodie) goodie Boosters! (Be expecting me to call you when the next Civic Theater play is on. Remember the Romans come to life in 1951 in this play, Victoria, Mattis. Starring in this drama are Lee Fleck, Jack Wilson with shields, and Paul Robbins, Evelyn Patton.)

Delvers Find Pleasure in Our Language

THE PURPOSE of Delvers Club is to stimulate interest in uses and traditions of the English language. The main work project of the year was having each girl compose an essay, poem, or play, on a given subject. The club, composed of 15 members, advised by Miss M. Ruth Brown, was organized in 1935. Social events were a Christmas party and the Mother and Daughter Tea.

MIDDLE RIGHT: Margery Long, Myrna Rogers, Rose Potts, and Phyllis Greene write a notice on the board, Room 268. BELOW: Acting a play are Sharon Phillips, Myrna Rogers, and Jean Potts.

Rifle Club Boys Seek Good Marksmanship

THE PURPOSE of Rifle Club is to achieve a higher standard of shooting. They meet every Thursday, and Mr. McNeely is their adviser. Their social highlights of the year are the State Rifle Meet and the six top members of the club take a trip to Indianapolis. The special work project of the year is to acquire enough points for a letter.

Anthony Wayners Visit Historical Spots

TO ENCOURAGE interest in history and government is the purpose of Anthony Wayne Club. Social highlight of the year was the dance, "Buck-board Bounce." Special projects were a visit to the Indianapolis State House, a spring trip to Washington and Philadelphia, and the fall visit to Fallen Timbers. This club meets every second and fourth Monday. The adviser is Mr. Clifford Richards.

For You We Made

CAROL CARMICHAEL, the editor, has served the Caldron since her sophomore year. She started on the copy staff, advancing to copy editor in her junior year, and editor in her senior year. Carol's spirit and ingenuity are keenly felt in the publication offices. She attended the Indiana University Institute for High School Journalists last summer, where she planned the Caldron.

ELAINE MEYER, manager for her second year, directs the business staff of the Caldron. With her staff she succeeded in scoring a new record of 40 one hundred per cent home rooms and 1375 sales. Elaine has experience in purchasing, fund raising, and office management. She also attended the Institute. She has successfully met all budget requirements.

MR. CLEON FLECK, our adviser, has been at Central since 1937; with his aid Central has had an All-American yearbook for the past 13 years. He advises the publications, teaches journalism, sponsors Press Club also. His sympathetic understanding is appreciated by all staff members.

This 1951 Book of Memories

IT TAKES a year to build a yearbook, and the entire school to make its publishing possible. The theme, a visit of the Hoosier Schoolmaster, was conceived in May, 1950, and the dummy, or book plan, was made in the following summer. Without exception, both editorial and business work was assigned daily. The budget of $6,900 was possible through the boosting of all Central, including home room teachers, classes, and activities. The Caldron is almost unique in having its own dark room and complete photography equipment. The book has been All-American since 1938.

THE Old Hoosier Schoolmaster would stare in wonder at our modern basketball and football games played under burning lights. Strange to him, too, would be the modern equipment, score boards, public address system. But despite all this, the great spirit of sportsmanship and fair play, spurring a team on to a fair victory or an honorable defeat, was true then and now.

Tigers Prowl on Grid

THE BENGALS lost to a tough and determined Lima, Ohio eleven for their 1950 season opener, and were again set back by a well-rated Central Catholic team. Then the boys in Blue came into their stride by taking six of the remaining seven games. The Tigers, taking their remaining city games, became runners-up to Central Catholic for the city crown. However, the Blue fell prey to Richmond, losing 13-6. Among Central's Gridiron victories were Concordia, North Side, Huntington, Logansport, Decatur, and South Side. The 1950 season closed with Central's Tigers having a 6-3 record, and out-scoring their opponents 160-102.

Tigers Win 19, Drop 6

THE FIGHTING TIGERS turned in a smashing 19-6 record during the 1950-51 season. The Bengals broke the tourney "jinks" that has been hanging over the City Champs by taking the city and the sectional crowns in the same year. The Blue won the city crown by taking seven of their eight city games, losing their sole city game to a strong North Side quintet. Also among Central's victories was the holiday tourney at Huntington. Central captured the sectional crown after defeating Monroeville, North Side, Elmhurst, and Hometown. The Bengals defeated Auburn's Red Devils in the regular season, only to meet a rejuvenated Auburn team in the regionals, losing 50-45. Even so, the Blue had a better season than any other city quintet.

Carlene —

Gosh, when it comes to writing down all I want to tell you, I'm lost. You have really been an inspiration to me, Carlene, whether you know it or not. You've got the ability to do anything you want to do. Make a good record Carlene, or that's something you can never lose. But more important than making a good record in the honors you will win, make a good record for yourself. I think you know what I mean. Carlene, I'm really sorry that you've seen some of the things that you have, because it's hard for anyone else to understand how a person can learn to take it. Really, it's easy as you go along. Carlene, do your best to make the kids like you. Always be willing to better yourself and to go out of your way to do for someone else. Then you will know that you've done your best. Listen to everything people tell you, but accept only that which you know is right. I could go on for ages, but I'm getting writer's cramp. Lots of luck in everything, Carlene, and write to me in college.

P.S. Good Luck in everything!
Thma

You'll be remembered for more than a year
If you'll put your autograph here!

Carlene:

your surely, have alot of speed ability -
am so putting great things from you!!

Thanks for putting up with me
these 8 weeks!

To Carlene,

To a really wonderful girl (if you call it that) who I have had the great pleasure
of knowing.
We've had lots of fun together especially in speech class after the boom was lowered. Also we have had fun
at the games
and at the dinner
table but none of this can beat speech class no matter how hard we tried. Next semester we'll really have fun
won't we? Well
then I am (I think)

To Carlene,

To a swell girl who always passes all her tests. And of course a brain? Only one thing wrong she always talks
all the time you've even got me beat. Ha Ha.

We've really had fun and I hope we have more fun the next two years. It's a shame

I have to waste this good ink on you.

Well its cheap and now.

Fate of Luck. Ha Ha
